New renderings have been revealed for 18W55, a 26-story residential building nearing completion at 18 West 55th Street in Midtown, Manhattan. Designed by Morris Adjmi Architects and developed and built by Skyline Developers, the 289-foot-tall structure will span 152,084 square feet and yield 97 rental units in studio- to three-bedroom layouts with an average scope of 1,319 square feet. The project will also include 6,380 square feet of ground-floor commercial space and a 10,343-square-foot cellar level. The property is located on a formerly vacant interior lot between Fifth and Sixth Avenues.

The above rendering provides an aerial perspective looking west at the upper levels and the stepped setbacks on the northern elevation, which will create space for expansive private terraces.

Other amenities will include a two-story fitness center with private training studios, a resident social lounge, a two-story coworking suite with an open lounge and private conference rooms, a 24-hour attended lobby and doorman, oversized washer and dryer facilities, a dog washing station, and above-grade private storage available for lease. LIVunLtd is managing the amenities.

The closest subways from the property are the E and F trains at the 5th Avenue–53rd Street station to the southeast.

18 West 55th Street's anticipated completion date is slated for October 2025, as noted on site.
